

SLEEPING LADY MOUNTAIN RETREAT

NORTH CASCADES, WASHINGTON

HARRIET BULLITT

Nestled in a secluded North Cascades mountain valley among towering Ponderosa pines beside the pristine Icicle Creek, this premier hospitality and performing arts venue embodies the spirit of the Mountain Northwest.

The inviting campus comfortably accommodates large groups, achieving a striking intimacy with nature. Structures are clustered in nesting places that invite guests to enjoy the preserved habitats of pine forest, meadows, wetlands, river, and mountains. Breathtaking views abound.

Here, nature and environmental stewardship come together to inspire a reverence for the beauty of the region.

FACTS

- 67 acres
- 40 buildings
- Lodging for 200 guests
- Dining and meeting facilities
- Native plants and animals

BENEFITS

- Minimal site impact
- Model green project in community
- Tourist destination
- Mecca for nature and performing arts enthusiasts
- Magnet for guests from urban centers
- Gateway to recreation
- Regional food lovers delight

Top Ten "Green" Project, 2001
AIA Committee on the Environment

Governor's Award for Achievement in Pollution Prevention, 2000
Washington State Department of Ecology

Project of the Month Award, 1997
Seattle Chapter, American Institute of Architects (AIA)

Energy & Architecture Award, 1996
Portland Chapter, AIA

JONES  JONES

ARCHITECTS
LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS
PLANNERS